Charles Wheeler's court today. With the exception of the accused brother, Miss Teller is the only survivor of the automobile which was murdered by attack on the Hart Orchard road on the night of January 30th. She was terribly beaten about the head and for several weeks her life hung in the balance. Her injuries for one day deprived her of her memory of everything at the scene of the murder.

EDLER JOINS SQUAD OF BADGER TOSSERS

Janesville Boy Practicing for Game He Really Can Play—Others Start Work Today

Ray Edler of this city, Badger grid-iron star, as well as one in his Janesville high school and Beloit college days, has joined the basketball squad of the Janesville team. He is the only player of the football season Olson, Simpson and Meyers, all known to followers of the Lakota Cardinals, are out for the Badger team. Levis, Olsen will become captain of the team at the opening of the second semester.

While Edler may be known and feared for his football ability basketball is really his long suit. More than one player, including a certain Mr. Fogarty, realize this only too well. Few players of opposing teams would appear at the rink during the last few years were able to hold him and only the "cracks" of the Troy, N. Y., five can be said to compare in ability with Edler.

Today was scheduled to witness the entire varsity basketball squad in action. During the football season only a few men have been able to try out under Meinwell's supervision.

UTMOST SIMPLICITY MARKS THE FUNERAL OF FRANCIS JOSEPH

Service Lasting Only Twelve Minutes
Is Attended by Royal Family and Potentates of Central Powers.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Vienna, N. ov. 30, via London, Dec. 1, 4:30 a. m.—In the presence of Emperor Charles, the youngest crown prince Francis Joseph Otto, the kings of Bulgaria, Batavia and Saxony, the German crown prince and special envoys from neutral governments, the remains of the late Emperor Joseph were buried this afternoon.

The services were extremely simple and lasted only twelve minutes. Emperor Charles, the German crown prince and relatives of the late emperor were grouped about the high altar in the cathedral at the foot of which the coffin rested on a black catafalque.

The body of the cathedral was crowded with government officials and representatives of the national court, and of the neutral diplomatic corps. The mourning costumes of the many women and neutral officials contrasted sharply with the splendid uniforms which were worn by the high officials, the new emperor and the other rulers. No flowers were used, the conduct of the ceremony being of the severe plainness and simplicity.

The body after being removed to the hearse by the palbearers was escorted over the long route out of the city by enormous crowds of people. High mourners stood around the coffin in the catafalque. They arose as it was borne into the cathedral by eight pages burning tapers. Cardinal Fitt began the service which was terminated by the Kyrie Eleison.

The absence of any organ accompaniment accentuated the simplicity of the service. The coffin was replaced in the hearse by the palbearers and taken to the crypt where it will remain. The mourners followed the hearse on foot to the crypt where another service terminated the ceremony.

The young son of the Emperor, the crown prince who is four years old, stood close behind his father who was dressed in ermine. Close to him were the two sons, the late arch duke and the heir apparent Francis Ferdinand by his morganatic marriage.

PROPOSED SALE OF FRENCH AND BRITISH TREASURY BILLS IN AMERICA IS CALLED OFF.

Morgan & Company In Statement Explain That Allies Seek to Avoid Embarrassing Federal Government.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Minneapolis, Dec. 1.—The proposed British-French government loan of fifty million dollars will be called off in deference to the federal reserve board at Washington, according to a long distance telephone conversation this afternoon between E. W. Rickard, president of a local bank, and H. P. Davis of J. P. Morgan & Company of New York.

Morgan's Statement.

New York, Dec. 1.—J. P. Morgan & Company withdrew the proposed sale of British and French treasury bills according to instructions received by them from abroad. The announcement contained the following statement:

"We have accordingly expressed to those interested and investors with these securities the wish to be released from the obligation to deliver and they have been kind enough to make a similar action is explained by the British chancellor of the exchequer and by the French minister of finance that the government desired to show every regard to the federal forces of government parties, of which the secretary of the treasury, and the comptroller of the currency are ex-officio members.

"We may assert that the sale in limited amounts of these treasury bills never had been an essential part of the allied governments' financial plan, but have for some time been under consideration with the view to furnish credit medium that would accede to the American banking demand for an instrument of short maturity and of such limited volume that the government could always undertake to lay down gold in New York sufficient to meet these mature bills.

"To protect American interests, it is believed further that the bill would furnish at the end of the war an excellent measure of protection to the American financial situation inasmuch as these steadily maturing obligations would have tended to prevent heavy drafts of gold from the market."

A formal statement was made by a member of the Morgan company that no other financial plan had been formulated in place of the one abandoned.

Pingocraft Is A New Art

It is presented to meet the growing demand for beautifying the home, as an artistic gift, and as the means of usefully occupying idle hours. To those who appreciate the artistic and delight in giving expression to their own individual ideas and ability, PINGOCRAFT will have a distinct appeal.

Pingocraft consists of a large and varied assortment of models cut from wood, which have been made into such useful articles as thread-holders, book-ends, door-stops, telephone-holders, etc. On the wood models, clever little figures are stenciled on a white background in such a manner as to enable even the inexperienced to decorate them in full color, by the use of the materials in the PINGOCRAFT outfit. Full instructions accompany each outfit, and in our store a complete display of the models will be found, together with a number of decorated pieces which will serve to illustrate the simplicity of the art and to suggest color combinations and introduction of PINGOCRAFT by us only a short time ago, the popularity of this new pastime has increased very rapidly, and we feel that we have found a pleasant solution of the perplexing problem of gifts, a useful article for home decoration, as well as a source of income for many who take up the art. A complete assortment of PINGOCRAFT will be found at

HOWARTH-VAN ALLEN WEDDING THURSDAY

Miss Luella Howarth and Matthew A. Van Allen Take Marriage Vows on Thanksgiving Day.

A very pretty Thanksgiving wedding took place at the home of Mrs. C. D. Howarth, Milwaukee avenue, when her daughter Luella became the bride of Matthew A. Van Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eber Van Allen of the town of La Prairie.

The Rev. C. V. Love of Rock Prairie United Presbyterian church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives. The home was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums, pink roses, smilax and ferns. The table contained a basket of pink rose buds as a centerpiece. The bride wore a gown of tulle and georgette. Mrs. Van Allen was graduated from the Janesville high school in the class of '09, and has since taught in the public schools of this county. Mr. Van Allen is a prosperous young farmer of the town of La Prairie. After a wedding trip they will be at home to their friends in their new home, in the town of La Prairie, January 1, 1917.

SPEED CAR WRECKED; EDGERTON MAN HURT

Driver Hits Cement Culvert as Machine Travels at High Rate of Speed.—Has Lucky Escape.

Fred Turner, 25, Edgerton, was badly cut and bruised last night when his speeding automobile struck a culvert just outside the city limits on Milton avenue. Turner was jammed against the steering wheel and was injured when the car turned over. He was brought to town attended by a physician. It was at first thought that he had received a fractured leg, but later it was determined that he had not. The most serious injury was a bad wound on the forehead, a long laceration just over the eye. He suffered many other cuts and numerous bruises and was fortunate in escaping as he did. The accident happened about seven o'clock. The culvert his machine struck is the first one outside the city limits on the avenue.

JANESVILLE COUPLE SURPRISED ON THEIR 30TH ANNIVERSARY

Sunday, Nov. 26th, was the thirtieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. August Somerfelt, who reside on Prairie avenue. To remind them of it their children and relatives walked in on them unannounced early Sunday morning and took possession for the day. They brought with them good things to eat. A good time and music was enjoyed by all present. A number of beautiful gifts were left in remembrance of the occasion.

FORMER JANESVILLE PASTOR HAS SUCCESS

Dr. Edward H. Pence, Formerly of the Presbyterian Church, Now Addressed by All Detroit.

Many old residents of Janesville who remember well Dr. Edward H. Pence of the First Presbyterian church, that tall, lean, dark-complexioned, fit, jawed, young man just out of theological school, who left here about seventeen years ago for Detroit, will be interested to learn of the success he has made during his pastorate in Detroit and of the high regard in which the citizens of that place hold him.

While there Dr. Pence has had the pulpit of one of the oldest and most aristocratic churches of the city; his was a historic year struggle to not only keep historic the old church with its many associations, but to build for it a future of service to the city—nobler and better than any of its founders had dreamed of. The struggle has been crowned with glory, for the future of the old church is well assured. Dr. Pence has received a unanimous call from the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church in Portland, Oregon, and will leave for that city early in December.

DALTON, AS USUAL, IS STAR IN TITLE TILT

Dubuque College Team Led By Local Boy Wins Western Catholic Conference Title.

Captain Maurice J. Dalton's Dubuque College team won the western Catholic conference title of the west at Dubuque yesterday, when they swamped St. Viator's College, 27 to 9, in a game replete with rough tactics on the part of both elevens, and in which a number of players were compelled to retire. Captain Dalton, who plays fullback, alternated at left half, scored the only touchdown, and scored twice in the end zone. Tommy Cronin, also of this city, played consistent ball and won applause with his long end runs and open field footwork. Interference kept him from scoring, however, quarterback for the defeated team via air route, and Finnegan won his team's only touchdown on a trick play.

Dubuque is the only Iowa college team which has not suffered a defeat this season. Although anxious to play the Dubuque German College, the officials of the latter school refuse to meet the Catholics.

LINE CITY AND HERE REPORT AUTO THEFTS

Roadsters Stolen on Thanksgiving Day.—Brooklyn Man Loses Machine at Corn Exchange.

Automobile thieves were active at Janesville and Beloit yesterday and in each instance succeeded in making good the theft of automobiles. Harry De Bell of Brooklyn last night reported to the police that his 1915 model electric light green body with black running gear, Officer William Gower saw the car as he passed at eight o'clock. Three hours later De Bell reported it missing at the station. Word was received from Beloit of the theft of a Ford roadster there yesterday. It was an Illinois car, No. 241,315.

Grimm Makes Ruling: Following a hearing which consumed the larger part of Wednesday, Judge Grimm in circuit court last evening made his ruling on the custody of the children of John and Kittie Murphy, who were divorced several months ago. Judge Grimm will be at the court next Monday to call the calendar for the coming term of court. The jury is called for next Tuesday afternoon.

I. S. W. A.: All members of the I. S. W. A. are requested to be present at the meeting to be held tonight in the Caledonian rooms. Election of officers.

FINDS DIAMOND IN CROP OF A TURKEY

Former Janesville Resident Remembers Boyhood Days and Is Rewarded for Cleaning Bird Himself.

Frank J. Hardy, who resides at 4451 North Racine avenue, Chicago, remembered his boyhood days on the farm near Janesville and decided that even turkeys were worth thirty-five cents a pound the Hardy family would have one anyway. Purchasing a sixteen pound fowl from a local store, he proceeded to pick it, just as he had done in his boyhood days. As a result he is richer by a hundred and fifty dollars for he found a diamond valued at $150 in the crop of the bird. It is safe to say the Hardy's will have turkeys for Christmas and New Year's too.

PERSONAL MENTION.

The Misses Mayme and Lillian Dulin spent Thanksgiving with their father, J. J. Dulin, who is ill at St. Mary's hospital in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmeter of Rockford, spent Thanksgiving with relatives in Janesville. Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Campbell and son of Rockford, were the guests of relatives and friends here yesterday. Charles McCaffery of Chicago, is visiting at his home on Center avenue. Stanley Judd of Chicago, is home for a short visit.

Joseph Hogan of Milwaukee, is the guest of Janesville relatives. Miss Lulu M. Stoddard spent Thanksgiving day at Madison.

Problem Bailed Philosopher.

It is curious to recall that Herbert Spencer hoped to take out a patent for a "flying machine." Only, he had given up an hopeless problem since solved by the aeroplane, regarding it as impossible to carry the motor-engine and motor-power required for a long flight. His idea was suggested by the principle of the kite, and involved the drawing through the air of an inclined plane by iron wire-ropes attached to an endless wire rope moved by stationary engines.

Woman's Curiosity.

The worst of women is that they are always wanting to see what will happen if they do certain things. They make a man angry just to see what he looks like when he is angry; and they make men miserable just to see what he looks like when he is miserable; and they never realize how much gratuitous suffering all this entails upon the man.—From "Concerning Isabel Carnaby," by Mrs. Fowler.

Gingham Paper Dolls.

There are some cut-out dolls of gingham and paper that children like. The bodies are traced on checked gingham, and the colored paper arms, legs and head are cut out and pasted on the bodies.

BOY SCOUTS MET IN JOINT DRILL AT THE Y. M. C. A. WEDNESDAY

First of the Combination Gatherings of All Troops in City Most Successful.

Fifty-one members of the Janesville Troop of the Boy Scouts of America held their first joint drill at the Y. M. C. A. building on Wednesday evening, and afterwards listened to talks by the officers and discussed plans for the coming year's work. It was a brave showing the various troops made as they marched from their regular quarters to the Y. M. C. A. building with true military precision. The drill was under the direction of Captain Koelbin, who twice a month will conduct the drills at the Y. M. C. A. having donated his services for that purpose. The members of the various troops evinced great interest in the work and are enthusiastic over the plans projected, which include a permanent camp as a possibility with a capable scout master in charge.

All but twenty-two of the scouts were in uniform, and one of the problems that confront the directors is to furnish the needed uniforms for the twenty-two. The question of raising funds is a serious one and the members of the scout organization were offered a five dollar prize for the best plans presented in writing. Five hundred dollars is needed, and there is now a deficit of a hundred dollars facing the organization that must be raised before the camp last summer's other expenses.

The plan suggested that a permanent fund be raised which would enable the scoutmaster to have a fund of a couple of hundred dollars which could devote all his time to the work and the establishment of a permanent camp during the summer months.

The boys will meet in their own quarters as usual each week and twice a month will have the joint drill at the Y. M. C. A. Plans for Saturday excursions and out of door tests for the members will also be a feature of the work of the year, as well as the conducting of scout camps in various parts of the city.

COUNTRY CLUB HAS SUCCESSFUL PARTY

Large Number of Janesville People Attend Party Held at Terpsichorean Hall.

One of the most enjoyable social occasions of the year was the annual Thanksgiving day party given by the Janesville Country Club at Terpsichorean Hall last evening. Not only was it a social success, but it also brought about a substantial sum was netted from the admission receipts and from the supper charges.

The many charming gowns gave to the holiday appearance that mere decorations could not have done. The Woodlawn orchestra, which has played in Janesville for a number of parties and has gained much popularity here, furnished the music. The supper, which was elaborate, was daintily and well served to small groups at a time, so the usual jam at such occasions was done away with. There were a large number of out of town guests at the party, both Janesville people who had returned for the Thanksgiving holiday and others who are visiting in this city.

With the money raised at this party the club will be able to do much in the way of decorating and furnishing the new addition to the club which has been built this fall.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Nov. 30.—At the home of Rev. Thomas Potter in the village of Clinton, on Thanksgiving day, occurred the marriage of Elmer M. Wee and Ethel I. Compton. Both young people had been residents of Orfordville until a few months ago when they moved to Beloit. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Wee and was born in the town of Spring Valley, where he spent his boyhood and young manhood excepting about three years when he was in the west attending college and teaching school. The bride is the only daughter of Mrs. Jane A. Compton and for more than ten years was assistant at the local postoffice where she won the respect and esteem of the public and was an especial favorite among the young people.

Miss Margaret Davis and Billie Wee, a sister of the groom acted as bridesmaid, and Charles Tews of the town of Plymouth as groomsmen. At the close of the marriage service the party returned to Beloit, where a private wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride, at which the wedding party and a few friends were present. They will continue to make their home in Beloit where the groom is in the employ of the C. & N. W. Railroad Company. Their many friends are extending to them their heartiest congratulations, and best wishes.

Claud Cochran of Janesville spent Thanksgiving here accompanied by local sportsmen with dogs.

NEXT CONGRESS.

There still seems to be considerable dispute as to whether the republicans or the democrats are to control the next house of representatives when it meets. Thus far press dispatches differ and indicate that while the republicans appear to have a majority in the house, still the independent voters and possible election of speaker and other officers. Of course democracy counts on every democrat to line up behind President Wilson and his policies, but as this was not true in the present session in all cases it is barely possible that it may not be true in the next congress. Especially in this a fact as regards the Tammany delegation from New York state. This famous organization has had practically as long a four years under Wilson as they might have expected in a republican regime. They give signs of showing resentment and certainly their vote on election day showed they were not in accord with the president and his policies. However the time congress actually convenes the votes will have been counted and the official line-up made so the public will know what to expect.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

The average shopper fails to realize that the early bird catches the worm and in consequence delays their shopping until the last minute when the stocks of goods are well looked over, the clerks tired and worn out and in the rush many things are forgotten that otherwise would have been remembered and taken care of in plenty of time. Shop early is a doctrine, a slogan if you please, that every Christmas purchaser should adopt. It means time and money saved, annoyance and worry avoided and better results all around. The holiday season is fast approaching. The Janesville merchants are preparing to display their stock of goods to the public and when the formal opening comes, the streets are illuminated and the lighting system, dedicated with appropriate exercises, the Christmas rush will be with us, so why not take time by the forelock now and make your purchases early and avoid the final rush when so many will suddenly awaken to the fact they must buy this or that. You will find that you will join that throng as well even if you shop early for the many little things left over, but take care of the big ones now. Shop early!

MORE NOTES.

We may expect more official notes to flutter back and forth across the Atlantic from now on since the election has decided our foreign policy. President Wilson announces he will probably reappoint all his present cabinet but it is intimated that several present members will resign to accept more lucrative positions in the business world. This would not cause any uneasiness as several could retire and not be missed at all. It is certain that in view of the fact the West saved the election for the President it is barely possible that he will see fit to put some western men in his official family in place of looking to the southland for all the statesmen. Meanwhile the notes will continue and the sinking of neutral ships, the embargo of certain American industries and the seizure of mails to neutral countries will continue doubtless unabated. It is safer to waste ink than blood although we have shed enough on the Mexican border the land knows as well as wasted tons of ink in trying to convince Carranza the United States is not to be meddled with.

THE FARM TO THE TABLE PLAN.

The University of Wisconsin reports that the so-called Farm to the Table plan for shipment of produce direct from farmers to consumers has not worked well in this state. Of two hundred farmers who advertised to make such shipments, only sixty-six have been able to keep it up. Yet this scheme worked admirably in Europe before the war. And it took time to get it on a sound basis there. Our farmers and consumers should not abandon the idea too quickly. It does offer a means for avoiding the high cost of the middleman's service, which President Wilson in his speech to the National Congress at Washington a few days ago declared was the big cause of the high cost of living.

Probably one reason why the plan has not worked was that farmers do not always realize the necessity of advertising. Or they may have put in just two or three ads at the start and stopped. It is the rule in any kind of business that you can't expect the best returns right away. It costs quite a little to get a new idea started. One must expect to run without profit for a little. Once certain families get to depending on a certain farm for a given line of supplies, they would buy at the same place year after year with a profit at both ends of the line.

Another difficulty encountered was that housewives could not seem to get their orders ready in advance, and then wait two or three days to have them delivered. There does not seem to be much forethought in the running of the modern home. The dressing room, and does not know of a shortage until the maid bursts in with the alarming cry, "No eggs." Then there is a hurry call at the telephone, the grocer is summoned, immediately to get out his man and team and drive up to the house with a dozen eggs in season for dinner. The whole process is costly and uneconomical. The old fashioned home with its shrewd economy foresaw shortages. Under present conditions of living it would be able to order in advance quantities of supplies that would keep the household going. Orders like these at better prices than the middleman would pay should look good to the farmer.

DOING HUMDRUM WORK.

The high price of all kinds of labor is changing many people's views about work. Formerly a great many women felt as if it was almost degrading to do any housework in their own homes. Or at least they felt that such tasks were so menial and routine that a bright and clever person ought not to be expected to perform them. Her brain was supposed to be worth more somewhere else. But one of these women has to pay twenty-five cents an hour to get a floor scrubbed, very likely by some raw immigrant who can't speak English, she begins to think whether she could not do it herself and use the money for things she wants to buy. When she takes hold of such household tasks, she finds it not so much drudgery as she thought.

Much of this domestic work is really a science calling for judgment and experience. Good cookery is one of the most highly prized arts. Once a woman gets interested in it, she says that it has the fascinations of any work that calls for skill and discretion. There may be as much satisfaction in baking good bread or roasting meat in a way to preserve the flavor and the juices and win the applause of the home circle as in reading a paper before the Woman's club. Women who do thus return to these more primitive and natural instincts find themselves with a feeling of independence they had not previously enjoyed. It is a satisfaction to be relieved from the endless friction that follows the keeping of servants. Men also feel the high cost of getting any kind of work done. It is not so cheap to get lawns mowed, offices and stores swept out, furnaces and stoves tended as it used to be. The boy who used to do chores and run errands at five cents an hour has grown up. His son wants ten to fifteen. People are learning that there is nothing lowering about any form of honest work, and that it is oftener cheaper and easier to do it yourself.

The fashionable way of celebrating Thanksgiving apparently is to have a home circle and old home reunion by leaving the old home and going to the nearest swill hotel.

The fact that a man buys a new fur coat for his wife does not prove that he will think to blanket his horse in cold weather. The horse can't talk back.

In spite of the fact that the football season is about over, the colleges, strange to say, persist in keeping the students there until baseball opens in the spring.

As there is to be an inaugural ball next March, the congressmen can't delay much longer to learn the latest variations of the one-step.

In view of the close election results in many of the prairie states, the congressmen may now think that the cause of preparedness requires them to establish a few navy yards there.

It is going to be hard to get peace in Europe as long as people who love and believe in peace will do everything that the war lords tell them to.

Naturally congress looks with some dismay at its new woman member who requires no spittoon and will not place her feet on the desk.

The farmer may be unmoved by the news of carnage in Europe, but when he finds he can't get his fertilizer, he realizes that war is hell.

NOTED AMERICANS JOIN IN "STOP THE WAR" MOVEMENT

Many noted Americans have joined in a national "stop the war" campaign, the avowed purpose of which is "to support our government in any effort it may make toward a just and lasting peace." They have organized this end the American National Conference commission. Hamilton Holt is chairman and the vice chairmen are Gov. Arthur Capper of Kansas, Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, Dr. George W. Kirchwey of Columbia, Miss Jane Addams, John Hays Hammond and Dr. John Harvey Kellogg. An important figure in the movement is Jacob Schiff, the New York financier.

"My ideal!" gushed Eugenia happily. But suddenly she grew downcast. "But about my present husband?" she inquired. "And besides, I was twenty-four yesterday." "Next client!" called the clairvoyant in a business-like tone.

It is still considered proper for the girls to wear a few cowbells over their shoulders at the dances.

Where Bluff Wouldn't Work. "Bluff!" sneered the blustering man. "Bluff is the thing. A man can bluff his way through life." "But," said the conservative, "if you couldn't swim and fell in, you couldn't bluff the river for a second."—Livingston Lance.

MARY ROACH BRIDE OF JOSEPH DABSON

Wedding on Wednesday at St. Patrick's Church—Miss Pearl West Weds Frank Newkirk.

Miss Mary Hazel Roach, daughter of John J. Roach, 327 Linn street, and Joseph W. Dabson, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dabson of the town of Harmony, were united in marriage at eight o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Patrick's Catholic church. The Reverend William Mahoney read the service. Miss Ellen Roach, sister of the bride, and Francis Roach, cousin of the bride, were the attendants. The bride wore a suit of burgundy broadcloth and a corsage bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore a brown suit and a corsage bouquet of pink roses. A two course wedding breakfast was served to sixty-five guests. The bride received many beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Dabson have left on a wedding trip to Muskegon, Michigan. The wedding of Miss Pearl West and Frank Newkirk was solemnized at four o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the residence of the bride, William Mahoney. They left Wednesday evening for Medford, Wisconsin which was the former home of the groom. Mr. Newkirk has been employed in Janesville as a motorman and the bride was formerly in the employ of Hazook's candy palace.

By reason of the great car shortage which now threatens, there has been placed in the hands of a small committee of railroad presidents and the interstate commerce commission the arbitrary power to speed up car movements by increased per diem charges, to punish for diversion and delay on cars, to speak for the railroads on all demurrage, reconstructions, and emergency suggestions.

Fairfax Harrison, president of the Southern railway, has been appointed chairman of the executives' commission, in whose hands the final authority has been placed.

WOMEN PLAN BIG DRIVE ON CONGRESS; LOBBY WILL SEEK VOTES AMENDMENT

At its coming session congress will be assailed as never before by advocates of the federal suffrage amendment. A lobby committee, including Mrs. J. Borden Harriman of New York, Mrs. Winston Churchill of New Hampshire, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton of Connecticut and Miss Mary G. Hay of New York, has been organized by the National Suffrage association and will begin work at once.

NO MORE ART IN THE HOME
Bungalows and Apartments of Today Have No Place for Great Pictures of Past.

"The future of art will be in museums, as the future of the dead is in cemeteries," John L. Balderston quotes George Moore in The Atlantic. "As I have said, after the art of the temple, the cathedral, and the palace, came the art of the house, which was the last phase; for now the art of the house is dead, since people no longer live in houses. They are all moving into bungalows, or, which is the same thing, into apartments—and in the bungalow there is no room for art. We have futile attempts at art for the bungalow, as we shall have pretended art for the Pullman car, for the motor, for the aeroplane. The great pictures of the past, having hung in houses for centuries, are passing into museums, not only because people are moving out of houses, but because new social ideas are destroying the great estates and making it impossible to keep valuable art works from one generation to another. In England now three death duties will break up the greatest estate in the kingdom. You say you still have houses in America and millionaires with money enough to buy pictures? Ah, but think of what they buy! It takes a lifetime to learn to recognize a good picture, and how can a man who has spent his best years making a fortune expect to know a masterpiece when he sees it? When I was in Paris forty years ago your rich Americans were buying trash!"

HOW HISTORY IS DISTORTED
Curious Liberties Taken by Scholars With Events in Other Countries, as Matter of "Policy."

Curious liberties have been taken by the scholars of one country with the history of another, the distortion being, of course, due in many instances to "policy." A striking example is found in a Russian text-book edited by a great Russian scholar, Hovanski:

"Louis XVI was a good and peaceful king. After a long and famous reign, in which he was most happy in his choice of minister of finance, he died quietly in Paris, beloved by all his people. His death was caused by a hemorrhage."

"The successor of Louis XVI was his son, Louis XVII. During his reign the brave, royal army, commanded by Gen. Napoleon Bonaparte, captured the largest part of the European continent for the French crown. But the faithless Napoleon showed tendencies toward misusing his power, and was suspected of harboring dishonest designs against the legitimate ruler. With the help of his majesty the emperor and autocrat of all the Russians, his plans were frustrated, and he was deprived of all his possessions, honors and rights to a pension. He was then exiled to the island of St. Helena, where he died."

Buddhism.

BROWN, OUTCLASSED
SUFFERS CRUSHING
DEFEAT BY COLGATE

Eastern Maroons Overwhelm Team
Thought Supreme of East—Pierce
Line Like Paper.

Colgate overwhelmed the much-heralded Brown team at Providence, yesterday, 25 to 0. The Brownians were powerless against the swift driving Maroon attack, which swept away the field, despite ankle deep mud and a steady downpour of rain. At every department of the game the brilliant Hamilton players outclassed the Maroons. The Maroon attack slid off tackle for successive first downs, the Brown line being easily moved.

Colgate, the dusky Brown star, failed to make a play, and was smothered every time he took the ball. The first Colgate touchdown came within five minutes after the whistle blew starting the game and from then on Colgate persistently threatened the Brown goal.

Penn Swamped. The University of Pittsburgh, by completely outclassing Pennsylvania State college, won the annual Thanksgiving day football game at Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon by a score of 40 to 0. The game was a complete rout for the Brown team, who were completely outclassed by the Maroons. The Maroon attack slid off tackle for successive first downs, the Brown line being easily moved.

Marquette Loses. Long forward passed by Bacon and strong defense, combined with frequent penalties, exposed upon Marquette for offense plays and holding, were mainly responsible for the victory of Wisconsin at Milwaukee yesterday, 14 to 7.

The visitors excelled in many departments of the game. Marquette's star, who played in the second half, but to no advantage.

Kansas Drops Title. Claims of the University of Kansas football team, the Missouri valley conference championship, were eliminated on Thursday, when they went down to defeat before the invincible Missouri team, 12 to 0.

Notre Dame Wins. Notre Dame defeated the University of Nebraska, 20 to 0 on Thursday. Two long runs by Bergman and one seventy yard run by Rustan, gave the victors their third touchdown.

Outside the long runs, the team played much on a punting game, frequently punting into the end zone, and gaining consistently through the line. Notre Dame worked a few forward passes.

DUSKY BROWN BACK
SENSATION OF EAST
HAS ANOTHER YEAR

Fred Pollard, former Chicago High School Star, Best in East This Year.

Fred Pollard, the negro youth who chopped and hacked to pieces every means of defense that could be devised by the Red Hatters and who stands today as one of the most remarkable football players of a decade, is working his way through Brown university. Pollard runs a little better than he did last year, and he is not hanging away at his studies or hampering down the field for Brown in football contests, as he presses the student's side.

Pollard is only a youngster as a football player in the bigger colleges, but already he has pulled a team to championship classification by his own efforts.

He chose Brown for his fame merely because it looked better to him than did several other universities, including Dartmouth. A brother of Pollard's, formerly played football at Dartmouth and Pollard's inclinations were first toward the Hanover, N. H. school.

As a vindication, it may be stated that Brown coaches knew nothing of Pollard's football ability until he asked permission to try out one afternoon. They asked him to try out one day and he informed them he had been a few points about the same in Chicago, his home. He was given a uniform, told to get busy, and the rest is history.

After the Yale game, Pollard was mobbed by the most remarkable half-back who had opposed the Blue this year, and when he turned toward Harvard and did the same thing, he was mobbed again. It was firmly established that he is one of the greatest football players the east has ever seen.

That is Pollard's second year as a big college football performer. He still has a year to make Harvard, Yale and the other pretentious elevations.

Business being several men as a football player, Pollard is something of a work performer, specializing in the handles.

According to stories emanating from Cincinnati and Chicago, Christy Mathewson, former Polo grounds idol and present manager of the Cincinnati Reds, before long may be representing the Cincinnati club at the meetings of the National League.

Mathewson's devotion to the Reds, and his determination to stay in Cincinnati, is a matter of public knowledge. He has been in the city since after the next annual meeting of the commission has been held.

BASKETBALL TEAM

FIRST STIFF DRILL

Prospects For Successful Season Are Bright—Play Beloit on December 9th.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 1.—Dr. Meany, coach of the University of Wisconsin basketball team, sent his men through the first hard drill of the year last evening in preparation for the Beloit game on December 9. The varsity five had as their opponents the freshmen five which have been working for the past two months under the direction of Al. Stover. The freshmen scored but three times during the evening on the first team while Lewis and his men shot baskets almost at will.

The varsity team was weakened by the absence of Olsen and Meyers who have not as yet donned their basketball uniforms. Both were out for the football team, while the minor injuries in the game against Illinois so they will be unable to take part in the basketball drills before next week. In addition to these two men the football squad will add Fladones, Adler, Hipke and Simpson to the list of eligible men for the squad.

With the first game but two weeks away Dr. Meany has little time in which to prepare the men. At the present time the forward positions seem to rest with McIntosh and Lewis with Bauer, Meyers, Pond and Farthing in reserve. Carlson and O'Connell are the guards with the center position still in doubt.

The freshmen squad, which will oppose the varsity this year in so many ways, is made up of the following: Knapp of Milwaukee Normal, Karst and Fitzgerald of Fond du Lac, Krenzel and Zupler of Evanston academy, McKinley and Mays of Milwaukee, Leyden of Baraboo and Johnson of Grand Rapids.

NEWS NOTES
BY DAISY DEAN

It is not generally known that Constance Talmadge, who has been elevated to stardom, is so accomplished a swimmer and high diver that she has the opportunity of being an aquatic champion instead of a screen favorite.

Miss Talmadge is a Brooklyn girl and learned the intricacies of the "rudegion crawl" and the "jack-knife flip" under the best professional auspices at Brighton Beach. One of the chief reasons why she now finds so congenial in the Fine-Arts colony, near Los Angeles, is that she is enabled to indulge in year-round bathing.

Although she has not yet celebrated her eighteenth birthday, Constance has appeared in motion pictures during the past two years. Her successful handling of the co-star part with Wilfred Lucas in "The Microscope Mystery" is declared to have justified the faith that her directors have placed in her, and it is reported that a special story is now in process of evolution for Miss Talmadge—a comedy drama that will give her the opportunity to utilize her aquatic prowess before the camera.

CIRCUS STUNTS. The days of "stunts" seem to be coming back to the film. In the early days they used to take a "stunt" which would require a special story. But the general run of offerings of late has been more of the "play" form. "The Jockey of Death," a new film release, is particularly representative of the revival of the film stunt. It is replete with the familiar dare-devil circus feats. Mlle. Evelyn and M. Arturo, European circus performers, have the lead.

"One stunt" is a slide down a wire cable from the top of a mountain to the bottom without a safeguard of any kind. The hero and heroine are pressed by pursuers, seize a bundle of faggots, hang it to the cable and—zip! they're gone.

COCKROACHES TO STAR NOW. John and Mary Cockroach are stars in a big production, "The Honor System," a ten-reeler that is to follow "The Daughter of the Gods." We've had snakes, snakes, dogs, fleas and other things, but it remained for producers to present the trained cockroaches. The picture deals with prison reform and shows the prison wardens communicating with each other by writing notes on cigarette paper, pasting it on the back of a cockroach and dispatching the roach to the family.

Alfred Acheson of Colton, South Dakota, who was the core part of the war with Glen Clark and family and T. M. Harper and family. The captured Eagle is still alive and thriving on its varied diet. HOME COMING. A home coming stunt is not easy to pull, it is work and it's worry and grief, so thinks Mr. Travis, a genial scout, whom we've picked as our Indian chief; while Baerveldt was chosen to beat it out West, there to run down an Indian tribe, and bring the bunch back to the city at spring—very well, if the tribe don't imbibed. But should they get soaked and go out on the path, and will not good Indians be. Oh, what will become of the chief and his aide, of our town committee men three? For Travis, Bill Stephens and Baerveldt were told, have charge of the red men in full, they're brave and they're clever, a very good pick, a smooth lot of chiefs with a pull; but should those guys start lifting scalp from the pates of our noble chieftains at home, should they think it proper to swing from their belt a scalp from a spring city dome—of course they will not for all things shall go smooth, but then we'll say, what if they should, you all know the kind, so do I know the kind, of Indians people call good. But down with the worries, and down with the woes, and down with the troubles and kicks, we'll join the parade, step 'er off with good cheer, join the spirit of Lem H. Single seventy-six.

BESSEY PLAYERS IN TWO GOOD COMEDIES

Stock Company Appears in Two Comedies That Kept Everybody Laughing.

On Wednesday night the stock players at the New Myers theatre gave their version of Willie Collier's greatest success, "Never Say Die." The lead was played by Jack Bessey with Miss Helen Gleason in the leading opposite role. Both appeared to advantage in their respective parts and with the assistance of the other players gave a very creditable performance.

Thanksgiving day matinee and evening Margaret Maye's wonderful comedy success, "Baby Mine," delighted everyone who saw it. Full of the funniest situations and lines the piece had great promise in the acting of the players, the best of the week in this place, brought out every funny point. As a laugh-producing success it was big.

"Some Baby" comes to the Myers Theatre Thursday, December 7, and will be interpreted by a magnificent company headed by Grace Merritt, who will be seen in the role of the daughter of the old professor, long imbued with the belief that there is an Elixir of Youth. He works to uncover the secret of its composition for many years and finally feels he has been successful, and it is this belief and his experiments in the use of his discovery that form the theme on which the authors have built their three hilarious acts. Miss Merritt is surrounded by an excellent cast of players including such well known artists as Carolyn Friend, Gertrude Johnson, Celeste Leslie, Dorothy Gray, Don MacMillan, Sterling Chiselman, Homer Hunt, Sam Black and William Moore.

FIRST NUMBER OF K. C. LECTURES ON TUESDAY NIGHT

The first of a series of lecture numbers will be presented at the Myers theatre on Tuesday evening by the local Knights of Columbus. The committee has selected for the first speaker the Rev. Father Mahoney, assistant pastor of St. Patrick's church, who will deliver his very interesting lecture on "The Christian Home." Mr. Parnell Eagen, the celebrated tenor, will sing a repertoire of songs.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson
Letters may be addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in care of The Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Just a word of praise for the good work you are doing for the young folk. I know it helps them, because it helps me, and I am only nineteen years old. I truly believe that if all the young folk would follow your advice they would certainly profit by it. I read the letter written by "Mr. Unknown" and my opinion is that the writer was certainly handicapped by ignorance and should be pitied instead of looked down upon. Surely something is wrong with him. I know that if the girls follow your advice I will surely advance a young man's respect for them, instead of leaving them away as Mr. Unknown would have it. I think a young man's ideal is his thought of a young woman should be still higher. As soon as young women realize that chance acquaintances and flatterers make them the easy prey to white slanders they will certainly accept your brand of advice. A girl wants a man to respect her, she must first respect herself. Please write again.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I would like to write more for your column. May I?

Some girls look upon my advice as practical goodyism. They really believe that boys would not go with them if it were not for the "good night" kiss. Their respect for themselves they never consider. I am glad to give them a chance to hear from a boy who knows. Certainly you may write again.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is a girl of fifteen too young to wear a nose veil? (2) If not, how should it be worn, under or over the hat? (3) What do you think of a boy or girl who boards with a relative and goes out every night and does nothing but play?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Is a girl of fifteen too young to wear a nose veil? (2) If not, how should it be worn, under or over the hat? (3) What do you think of a boy or girl who boards with a relative and goes out every night and does nothing but play?

Household Hints

DESSERTS.
Pudding—Two and one-half cups bread crumbs, one-half cup chopped suet, one-half cup chopped raisins, one-half cup chopped nuts, one-half cup brown sugar, three-fourths cup milk, three eggs, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon nutmeg, two tablespoons flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Cream suet with wooden spoon and add eggs. Soak bread crumbs in milk, add well-beaten eggs, sugar, salt, spices and baking powder. Combine the two mixtures and add raisins and nuts dredged with flour; mix well. Turn into buttered mold, steam three hours and serve with hard or lemon sauce. This is fine and will serve from eight to ten persons nicely.

Suet Pudding (to serve sixteen persons).—One cup sweet milk, one cup chopped suet, one cup molasses, two cups flour, one cup currants, one cup each of citron, lemon, orange, orange peel, one teaspoon each of soda, cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg. Mix ingredients and steam two hours. Sauce for pudding: One tablespoon cornstarch, one cup boiling water, one-half cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup sugar, one tablespoon butter, one teaspoon flavoring (any kind liked). Will serve over sixteen persons.

Cheese Pudding—One cup molasses, half cup melted butter, three and one-half cups flour, one cup milk, two eggs well beaten, half teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-half cup soda, one cup seeded and minced raisins. Stir molasses and butter to a cream, add milk, eggs, spice, then flour sifted three times, one cup soda, one cup seeded raisins and mix well. Pour into butter mold; set in pot of boiling water and cook steadily three hours. The water must be kept at a fast boil all the time. Finish with lemon sauce or hard sauce.

Pumpkin Pie—One coffee cup pumpkin (cooked and mashed), one egg, one cup sugar, one-half cup butter, one-half cup flour, one-half cup cinnamon, one-half cup ginger, one pint milk. Mix flour with sugar, beat egg, add remaining ingredients. Bake one hour. Bake pie crust rather slowly. This recipe makes one pie.

Coffee Mousse—One quart cream whipped, one and one-half cups coffee, one cup sugar, one cup sugar, one cup cold water, one cup sugar. Soak gelatin in cold water, dissolve in hot coffee. When cold add sweetened whipped cream. Pack in mold and ice. Let stand four hours.

Apple Snow—Two cups milk, yolk of one egg, one tablespoon cornstarch, three tablespoons sugar. Make custard and set aside to cool. One apple (grated), white of one egg, two-thirds cup sugar. Beat apple and egg until very stiff, and sugar and custard. Put away in dishes and pile apple snow in center.

Fig Roly Poly—One-fourth pound figs, one-fourth pound suet, one cup flour, three-fourths cup milk, three-fourths cup bread crumbs, one-third cup raisins, one-third cup sugar, one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Pour boiling water over figs and raisins. Chop suet. Put suet in mixing bowl with sugar, salt, baking powder and crumbs. Make this ready to roll by adding milk gradually. Roll out in oblong shape. Wipe figs dry and cut in small pieces. Spread layer of figs, then raisins, over paste. Wet edges of paste with cold water and roll up. Bake in buttered pan, thirty minutes. Serve with buttered paper and steam three hours.

Date Pudding—One cup dates, one cup nuts, one cup milk, one cup light cream, one egg, one cup sugar, one cup baking powder. Chop nuts and dates. Mix well together and bake thirty to forty minutes in moderate oven. Serve with whipped cream.

MAXIMILIAN'S WIDOW
INSANE, DOES NOT KNOW OF GREAT WAR OF WORLD.

Amsterdam, Netherlands, Dec. 1.—The Telegram's frontier correspondent learns the Empress Charlotte, widow of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, still resides at the castle of Boucourt, near Brussels. The castle and the park have not been touched by the Germans and soldiers are forbidden to enter the grounds. The Empress has never been informed of the war, but she has been visited by Albert and Queen Elizabeth do not visit her any more.

The Empress Charlotte has been suffering from insanity for many years.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

You cannot get something for nothing from anyone (except money) and you cannot get anything for nothing from a business firm.

Everyone knows this. Apparently few women believe it. Every now and then we get a demonstration of this.

I wonder if you have heard the latest.

Some time ago several thousand women received a letter telling them that a certain firm would sell a four dollar and a half silk petticoat for a dime. You must write five letters to the other women, then send their addresses and a dime to the firm and get your petticoat.

Furniture for a Doll's House
Now you may have heard of the advertisement in which the advertiser promises to send a parlor suite for some such ridiculous sum as $3.00. No word is said in the advertisement about dimensions and when the suite is described, but suitable only for a doll's house.

I thought at first this must be a similar hoax, but I was wrong. It was a far simpler affair. Instead of sending a diminutive petticoat the advertiser sent nothing at all.

Five Hundred Thousand Letters
What the government was doing put on the track and the "firm" died, there were over five hundred thousand letters waiting for him in the post-office.

It seems unbelievable to me that intelligent women would be taken in by such a ridiculous, on the face of it, offer as a petticoat for ten cents; but up to date I have received five hundred letters from women who have sent the dime.

A fourth persisted in sending hers, even after she had heard of the federal investigation.

The Price Seemed Too Low to Me
They had made the price more possible. I suggested to the woman who first told me of this, "A dollar, for instance, one could understand."

"No," said she, "they are wise to put it so low. The women think that it's only a dime and therefore worth risking. It's like staking a small sum on long odds. And lots of them may have sent it just for curiosity."

To conclude, those five hundred thousand letters have got to be opened by the dead letter office, and the contents returned. Wouldn't it be wonderful if that fifty thousand dollars could only be turned over to the Belgians or some other war sufferers?

OVERWORKING THE ARTERIES

(Longevity Series.)
The United States reports make very pleasant reading for those of us who may still have forty to face. They show, in a manner quite impossible to ignore, that men are living longer, so long as their fathers lived, over these delightful tables might be profitably substituted, by many young men, for an evening spent in pouring over the poker table, now and then. It would make them think. Thinking doesn't make a cubit to a man's stature, but it sometimes adds years to his life.

While the death rate per thousand population has steadily declined in the past twenty or thirty years for all other ages, it has steadily increased for middle age. The young man of forty is as old as his father was at sixty. His chance of survival is considerably less than his father had at his age, in spite of the fact that the sanitary conditions are so much better today.

Cancer contributes something to this alarming outlook, perhaps. Cancer is apparently on the increase; we can say apparently, because the question of diagnosis makes it doubtful. Possibly cancer is no more common than it was a generation ago, but it is more generally recognized by the profession. At the worst, cancer is only a minor factor in the perils of middle age. Degeneration is the big factor. Auto-intoxication again.

SAVE TROUBLE ALL ROUND: MAIL XMAS PACKAGES NOW.

Washington, Dec. 1.—"Do your Christmas mailing early and that means—do it now."

Fearful of a rush of business in the several days before Christmas which will jam the postal system so that some mail will necessarily be delayed, officials today came to bat with the above warning.

"It is absolutely urgent," said one, "that mail going to foreign countries get away at once if Christmas deliveries are hoped for. The censorship of the belligerent countries spells delay and even countries not at war are having trouble with their mail."

Postal employees are looking forward with dread to the Christmas parcel post load, if those who usually wait until the last minute will only hurry up, mark the package, "Not to be Opened Until Christmas," they will confer a series of joys, one to the recipient and one to the sender, and every complete who has to handle the package.

TO COUNSEL MOSLEM IN CHRISTIAN WAYS.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
New York, Dec. 1.—Feeling that the strategic moment for a drive of Christianity into Egypt has come, Mrs. Wendell Cleveland, with her husband, will sail for the land of the Nile in December to engage in missionary work. She is the daughter of New York State Comptroller Eugene M. Travis. Mr. Cleveland is to become professor of English in Cairo University, established under an international Board of Trustees. It is the purpose of the board, according to its secretary George Innes of Philadelphia, to give the Moslem Christian leaders who will reconstruct their society along Christian lines.

Each in a Vial

You make Jiffy-Jell—like other gelatine desserts—by pouring boiling water on it. This boiling water would scald the flavor if it came mixed with the gelatine, as usual.

In Jiffy-Jell you add the flavor when the jelly has partly cooled. So you get the fresh fruit flavor.

Keep Busy.
To be happily busy in doing something we delight in doing is a splendid antidote for worry. For industry is an act on the wheels of life; and in the eye of energy. Thousands of semi-invalids to whom adverse fortune has denied the pleasures of useful work have ridden to health on a hobby.

Growing Young.
There are two ways to keep from growing old: the first is to die young and the other is to keep young. The spirit of youth is cultivated by learning new things. A desire to know is followed by mental growth. Thus you grow young in spite of wrinkles and gray hair.

TODAY'S BEAUTY HELP

You can keep your hair at its very best by washing it with this simple, inexpensive shampoo, which cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly of all the dandruff and dirt and leaves a clean, wholesome feeling. Dissolve a teaspoonful of caustic soda in a cup of hot water, afterwards rinsing thoroughly with clean water. One hint that the hair dries quickly and evenly, is unsaturated, bright, soft and fluffy, so fluffy in fact that it looks more abundant than it is, and so soft that arranging it becomes a pleasure. All scalp irritation will disappear and the hair will be brighter than ever before.—Advertisement.

I know Resinol will heal this rash

I never worry if I have a little rash or other eruption break out—I just put on a bit of Resinol Ointment. That takes out the itching and burning instantly, and soon clears the trouble away. I learned of Resinol Ointment through our doctor prescribing it for my brother. Tom had been almost frantic with eczema for months but that ointment healed his skin like magic.

Resinol Ointment is sold in all drug stores.

Have a Clear Complexion and Clean Skin

There is one sure, safe way to avoid blotchy, pimply skin. A good or bad complexion comes from within. If you want a clear complexion, a clean skin—rosy cheeks and good healthy, your blood must be pure and the poisonous matter must be carried off. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets assist nature to remove all poisonous waste matter in the system. They act on the liver and bowels like a natural laxative, but are not harsh or irritating. They are reliable—safe and cannot harm—are used by women folk everywhere. Constipation is nearly always the cause of all skin troubles. Their action must be made to do their work as nature intended—in a normal way. Have color in your cheeks. STREET SCENE ABOUT MIDNIGHT DURING THE POKER SEASON.

The QUARTERBREED

By ROBERT AMES BENNET

(Copyright by Bennett & Howell Co.)

Hardy alone divined the deceptive mockery of his rival's cumbersome display. But he was bound by his word and could say nothing. It was he, and not Vandervyn, who was looked upon with suspicion by the crowd. Soon there was a gathering of a moblike group, that rumbled awhile, and ended by presenting itself before Hardy as a committee of inquiry.

"You been agent at this here reservation," explained their spokesman. "We want to know if you've got a frame-up to have some fellow meet you with your pack animals over in the mountains."

"No," replied Hardy. "There are four days' rations in my saddlebags. A poncho is all one needs in sleeping before a fire this time of year."

"You ain't got no tools," criticized a man who had been drinking.

"The same is true of several among you," Hardy rejoined.

One of the cowboys who was included in this remark called back resolutely: "You've been into the mountains. I bet you a blue chip you've got a good prospect spotted, ready for branding."

"I am not making any bets," said Hardy. "You have heard all I know about the trail. Mr. Vandervyn has made the trip several times. He was with me during the one trip I made. I have no objection to your questioning him about it."

There was some muttering over this. But Hardy's manner was so cool and quiet that the impatient mob left him, and struggled over to where Vandervyn had hired an expert to throw the diamond hitch on his ridiculous pack. Hardy turned his back on them, and set to grooming the salty coat of his mare. His unconcern was well founded. Whatever means Vandervyn used, they were sufficient to satisfy the crowd. The muttering soon ceased, and the men dispersed.

CHAPTER XXI.

The Race.

The commissioners came down from the agency barely in time to make their identification of the contestants. Last of all Hardy and Vandervyn identified themselves and hurried over to the end of the waiting line. There was a scant five minutes remaining. Vandervyn was a quiver with eager excitement, and made no attempt to conceal the fact. He smiled and waved his hand to the commissioners, and looked about with sparkling eyes. There was no anxiety or envy or malice in his look. Never had he appeared handsomer or more boyish.

The other commissioners had climbed into the touring car. One of them held up his watch. Another commissioner arose, thrust a small pistol above his head with a melodramatic flourish, and fired.

At the signal the line of contestants wavered and plunged forward into the shallow stream. There were, however, quite enough hasty ones to raise a wild splashing and turmoil, as whooping and yelling, they spurred their ponies through the water and whirled away at a gallop. Some wheeled up the coulee; a few rode straight across at the steep bank. Vandervyn, wild and noisier of all, headed downstream for the road, spurring his pinto. He was followed by a large bunch.

Hardy started after these last, holding his mare to her usual steady trot. When he came up the road to the head of the gulley, those who had gone before him were all quite a distance ahead, with Vandervyn still in the lead. Midway between the mouth of the valley and the agency, the long-striding mare began to pass ponies whose riders had thought better of their whirlwind start. Others were still loping in swift pursuit of Vandervyn.

Hardy walked the mare up the slope of the agency terrace. He saw nothing of Dupont or Marie, and the Indians had moved away with their tepees. But in the rear of the warehouse he caught a glimpse of two Indian policemen removing the load from Vandervyn's pack pony. His face clouded. He put the mare into a gallop.

All the way to the head of the valley Hardy held to a steady gallop. One after another, he passed the remaining leaders. The best of the ponies were no match in speed with the big thoroughbred.

At last only Vandervyn was ahead. As Hardy overhauled and forged past Vandervyn, the young fellow turned and met his gaze with a look of mocking-lance. Hardy glanced back several times, prepared to fling himself flat alongside the pommel of his saddle. His uneasiness did not lessen when a few minutes later Vandervyn halted, and scrambled down from the trail to get a drink out of the creek. The crease in Hardy's forehead deepened.

Ahead, the walls of the canyon were sloping back into the widened valley where had been the first Indian camp. Dogs, Indians and tepees, all were gone. Only a brush-walled dance lodge remained to mark the camp site. As the mare pounded past, she curved her outstretched neck toward the lodge and whinnied. Hardy heard no answer to the call, but his frown suddenly deepened.

He reined forward and stroked the mare's neck. Hot as had been the race from the agency, she had not turned a hair. His frown relaxed. Yet his tight lips showed that he was still uneasy. He balanced himself in his stirrups, and began to ride as lightly as possible.

Ascending the mountainside, he was compelled to content himself with the mare's nervous, long-strided walk. But whenever the trail was not too steep or rough, he put her into a trot, and varied the pace with an occasional short gallop.

An hour passed. He was already well into the mountains. He came to a succession of steep climbs and descents that held the mare down to a walk. Presently he thought he heard hoofbeats behind him. He listened. He had not been mistaken. An unshod horse was coming up with him at a steady jog trot.

It seemed impossible that Vandervyn's pinto could have so recuperated from that whirlwind heading of the rush as to be able to take this steep trail at a trot. Hardy gazed back, expecting to see one of the cowboys. As he went down over a ridge crest, the rider came up the ridge back across the intervening gulch. The man snatched off his broad-brimmed hat to wave a salute. The sun glinted with a golden sheen on the unmistakable blond head of Vandervyn.

At the first small break in the descent Hardy dismounted, unsaddled, and sponged out the mare's mouth and nostrils with water from his canteen. He then shook out and refolded his Navajo saddle blanket, and started to remount. But before he buckled the cinch-strap he shifted the pistol from his breast to a front pocket in his riding breeches.

He was vigorously grooming the mare when Vandervyn came jogging down through the thickets of tall brush that grew close on each side of the trail. He did not pause in his rubbing until the nimble-footed unshod pony ambled into view, less than a dozen yards up the trail. Then he glanced about, straightened, and stood staring. The pony was a pinto.

Vandervyn, smiling with insolent exultance, rode down to him, his right hand jauntily poised on his hip, over the hilt of his revolver. His eyes challenged his rival with an audacious, provoking stare. But Hardy looked only at the pinto. He was fresh—no weariness in his gait. He was fresh—lots of come-back to a bronco, captain," purred Vandervyn. "Sorry to see that you've stove up your mare. She's too highbred for a rocky road like this. But you might take off her shoes and travel light, the way I've done."

The pony was now ambling down the slope past the mare. Hardy looked at the unshod hoofs. They were covered with a coating of clay mire from the bottom of the last gulch, and the beast's shuffling pace did not expose the under surface of the hoofs. Whether the pony had or had not been recently unshod could not be seen.

"Great horse, my little old pinto," mocked Vandervyn. "By-by! I'll tell Marie you'll be along later." Hardy perceived in a flash why he had seen neither the girl nor her father at the agency. Swiftly he wheeled about to mount. Startled by the quick action, Vandervyn spurred his pony, and went down the steep descent at a gallop far from easy on even a mountain-bred horse's knees. Hardy followed at a walk. The opposite rise was gradual. He let the mare take it at a slow trot. At the top was a fairly level stretch of trail. Vandervyn was far ahead. Hardy put the mare into a fast gallop. A few minutes brought her up so close behind the loping pinto that Vandervyn spurred his beast to sprinting speed. Hardy followed at an easier yet swift pace that again brought him near, as the pinto slackened to a lope.

A steep ridge made a break in the game. The pinto crossed it at a jog trot. The mare had to walk. Beyond was a long stretch of broken country that favored the pinto. He could jog over ground that held the mare to a walk, and canter where she could no more than trot. On such a trail he was fully equal to traveling at these paces for twelve hours at a stretch, all the time in the lead of the mare. Of this Hardy was as well aware as was Vandervyn.

Though he steadily lost ground, he kept on in pursuit, coolly studying the landmarks ahead and "lifting" his mare along over the heartbreak trail. To have given way to the impetuosity that betrayed itself in his flashing eyes would inevitably have lost him the race by overstraining the mare. He held himself grimly in hand, and eased the going for his eager mount with consummate horsemanship.

When they reached better ground, Vandervyn was again far ahead. But Hardy had his reward for his restraint in the resilient stride of the mare as she swung into a full gallop. Up and down the long, easy slopes, around a curving mountainside, and along the level bench of a stream bank, she held to the cross-country racing pace that rapidly rolled up mile after mile of the trail.

In less than half an hour she brought her rider around a sharp bend only a few hundred yards behind the pinto. Vandervyn, over-confident, was jogging along the level when the sound of the approaching hoofbeats threw him into a half-panic. There was still a long stretch of easy trail ahead. He put his pony into a gallop. The long-legged thoroughbred, still running as smoothly as clockwork, continued to gain. Vandervyn began to swing his spurs.

The pinto started to pull ahead. Hardy held the mare to the same speed as before. It was a speed that he knew she could maintain for miles. He could see that the pinto was being forced to a killing pace—a pace that must strain if not break him before.

We Use 'Gets-It'!

3 Drops in 2 Seconds. That's All.

"GETS-IT" Does the Rest.

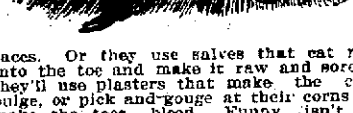

Never Fails.

"Really, I never could see how some fellow uses the most difficult and painful way they can find to get rid of corns. They'll wrap their toes up with bandages until a package that fills their shoes full of corns and makes them so painful they've got to walk sideways and wrinkle up their faces. Or they use salves that eat right into the toe and make it raw and sore, or they'll use plasters that make the corns make the toe bleed. Funny isn't it? 'GETS-IT' is the simple, modern wonder for corns. Just put 3 drops on it. It dries instantly. No pain, fuss or trouble. The corn, callus, or wart loosens and comes off. Millions use nothing else."

"Forgive me, Mr. Sparks," said Mabel. "Of course I will. Why, that's what the party was for!"

He felt his position keenly. Restlessly he moved off one leg onto the other, and looked up at the ceiling, other, and looked up at the ceiling, other, and looked up at the ceiling.

"Well?"

"If I post this letter tonight will it arrive in Glasgow first post tomorrow?"

GETTING PICTURES ON SOMME PROVES A REAL MAN'S JOB

Died of Premature Old Age!

(By V. M. Pierce, M. D.)

How many times we hear of comparatively young persons passing away when they should have lived to be 70 or 80 years of age. This fatal work is usually attributed to the kidneys, as, when the kidneys degenerate, it causes auto-intoxication. The more injurious the poisons passing through the kidneys the quicker will those noble organs be degenerated, and the sooner they decay.

It is thus the wisest policy, to prevent premature old age and promote long life, to lighten the work of the kidneys. This can be done by drinking plenty of pure water all day long, and occasionally taking a little Anuric before meals. This can be obtained at almost any drug store. Anuric will overcome such conditions as rheumatism, dropsical swellings, cold extremities, scalding and burning urine and sleeplessness due to constant arising from bed at night.

WHAT OUR NEIGHBORS SAY. Portage, Wis.—"I know Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a good medicine. About six years ago I developed quite a severe case of weakness from which women suffer. I also had a very bad stomach. I got very nervous and was nearly on the verge of nervous prostration. I had doctor for several years but did not get the relief I needed. I began taking the 'Prescription' and two bottles was all I needed to put me in good condition. I have never had any return of these ailments."—Mrs. Anna Scherbert, 1003 Prospect Avenue.

Green Bay, Wis.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a splendid medicine. I have used it in my family for many years, for coughs, colds and La Grippe, and it always gives perfect satisfaction. Knowing what it has done for us I can highly recommend it."—Mrs. Ed. Basche, 421 Fifth Street.

DOES RHEUMATISM BOTHER YOU?

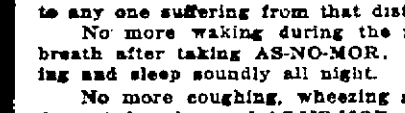

Many Doctors Use Musterole

So many sufferers have found relief in Musterole that you ought to buy a small jar and try it.

Just spread it on with the fingers. Rub it in. First you feel a gentle glow, then a delicious, cooling comfort. Musterole routs the twinges, loosens up stiffened joints and muscles.

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It penetrates to the seat of pain and draws it away, but does not blister the tenderest skin. It takes the place of the mussy, fashioned mustard plaster.

Musterole is recommended for bronchitis, croup, asthma, pleurisy, lumbago, neuralgia, sprains, bruises, stiff neck, headache and colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

Mrs. Tipton Bud went to market this mornin', but she didn't say beans. Some folks never borrow trouble—they just borrow $2 and fergit it.

Winter Months on the Farm

How to

Selecting and Testing Seeds

How to Choose the Best Grain—
Winter Jobs That Result in Bigger Yields

The death knell of scrub stock, whether animals or plants, is sounding far and wide. Where formerly scrubby parent stock was once commonly used, they are gradually but surely declining in popularity. The farmer is awakening to the value of good blood. In the live stock industry breeders have elevated the general farmer to an appreciation of the benefits and greater profits possible through careful selection and mating of pure-bred foundation stock. State legislation has aided in the eradication of scrub and grade animals. Public sentiment has cheapened the scrubby popularity of scrub and grade bulls, bears and rams, but only recently has the farmer's attention been directed to the careful selection and testing of all his seed grains and the use of only pure-bred strains of plants in the crop rotation.

By increasing the production of corn in the United States one bushel per acre an annual increase of 115,000,000 bushels would result. To augment the oat and barley yields one bushel per

The preferable device for testing is a box 30x40 inches square and usually six inches in depth. Sawdust is an excellent material to use as a germination bed, but it should first be boiled in water in order to kill bacteria or molds. The sawdust should be placed in the box about three inches deep and should be moist but not soggy.

A piece of good muslin upon which two-inch squares have been drawn with an indelible pencil and numbered to correspond with the sections and individual ears to be tested, is pulled tightly over the sawdust and tacked securely to the sides of the box. The kernels of corn taken from ear No. 1 are put into square No. 1, and from ear No. 2 in square No. 2, until all are used. A plain moistened cloth is placed over the kernels and a muslin sock made for the purpose and partially filled with sawdust about two inches thick is placed on top of the cloth and pressed down firmly over the corn.

The tester should then be placed where it will be held at ordinary room temperature or a little warmer. During the day the sawdust reaches a temperature which it holds during the night, even though the outside temperature drops several degrees the germination bed will be fairly constant.

After five or seven days have elapsed the sawdust pack should be removed and the cloth rolled back upon the corn, being careful not to disturb the kernels underneath. The kernels should be inspected to note if any have absolutely failed. If each kernel has put forth both root and growing point, and the vigor or vitality shown in the germination. All seed which does not germinate should be rejected.

Before shelling the seed, remove the butts and tips, as these grains are of different shape and will neither plant uniformly nor give a uniform germination. If the butt and tip kernels are planted at all they should not be used with the middle kernels, but should be planted by themselves.

Testing Small Seeds. The prospective seed buyer should first send to the seed dealer for a sample of small seeds, such as alfalfa, clover, etc., upon which he can make a germination test. A simple seed test can readily be arranged. Take two tin plates, one a little larger than the other, put a piece of cotton flannel to fit in the larger plate, soak the flannel in water, then squeeze out the surplus water, and put the flannel in the larger of these plates. Then place 100 or more seeds in this plate, cover the seeds with a similar pad, well moistened with water, and then cover with the smaller tin to retain the moisture. The tester should then be placed in some convenient place where the temperature ranges from 70 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

The tester should be examined every 24 hours to see that the pads do not become too dry. It is advisable to loosen up the lower pad occasionally to let in oxygen, which will aid in the germination of the seed. In about three days the seed will begin to germinate and at the end of five days they should all be germinated.

Good seed should give a germinating test of at least 90 to 95 per cent, better still, if it reaches 100. No clover seed should be sown that does not test at least 80 per cent.

Danger of Weeds. Purchased seeds may be the means of bringing noxious weeds which, once established upon the farm, result in serious losses or great expense to eradicate. The annual losses caused by weeds on the farms of this country need more serious consideration than has thus far been given to the subject. We have evidence which shows certain portions of the country to be infected with weeds to an extent that makes it very advisable to carry on a determined warfare to eradicate them. For many years those interested in scientific and permanent agriculture have considered the menace of weeds and have issued warnings against them. This early work dealt almost wholly with preventive measures, largely along the line of seed inspection to insure clean seed.

SUN PRAIRIE YOUTH TELLS HOW HE WON HONORS AS FARMER

Persistence and Interest in Work Factors in Securing Title of Boy Champion Farmer.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Dec. 1.—Frank Will, a member of the country community, who won the title of Sun Prairie Boy Farmer of Wisconsin at the 1916 state fair, has sent a story of how he became champion Boy Farmer to the Gazette. Oliver B. Boy, Farmer to the state fair. The story follows:

I was born on the farm in town of Sun Prairie, six years ago. I am a member of the country community. My boyhood education was started in the Sun Prairie grades, where I finished the grades and am a member of the senior class of the high school. During all of my early years I was vitally interested in all farm projects, and early determined that some day I should become the possessor of a model stock farm.

When I entered high school I selected the agricultural work because it appealed to me as being my forte. My interest in this work was not unshared during my freshman year, because I was simply getting my bearings in, as it were, the new community. In my sophomore year more interest was shown in the work, and in my junior year, with five other boys I was sent to the state fair at Milwaukee, where we competed with boys from all over the state. This encouraged me in this line of work, because in the final ranking I found that my few short years in agricultural work had made me second place boy of Wisconsin.

In my senior year's work was entered into with an enthusiasm that knew no bounds. I concluded to ask my parents if they would allow me to have a certain portion of the farm, on which I might raise corn, potatoes, garden products and stock. They readily agreed to this and as a result I showed in a great many ways, in my senior year, the 1916 state fair, and the awarding of the places made me the champion boy of the state.

All grains and stock which I have made an effort to produce have come from the best seeds and foundation stock obtainable. I early realized that in order to improve farm conditions in our state and make my work stand out as worthy of any one to follow, I would have to produce something which was better than anything that had been produced, and from which production I would be able to gain a great deal of information for future use.

I attribute my success to an everlasting "stick-to-it-ness," coupled with the fact that after I had planted seeds and had started stock, I never at any time let up in my enthusiasm. And during dry weather and wet and cool weather, I would stand out as worthy of any one to follow, I would have to produce something which was better than anything that had been produced, and from which production I would be able to gain a great deal of information for future use.

All work of plowing, planting, taking care of materials which I raised was under my own direct supervision. And the work which was capable of being done by the plowing, etc., was only made possible after diligently laboring over various assignments given in class instruction in school, and actually observing sales of cattle and horses, which we were asked as classes to attend.

These things in summary form give a clue to my success in achieving the honor of champion boy farmer of Wisconsin, nothing more in any degree than the result of good hard work rightly directed, and what I have done being done by any other boy who simply makes up his mind to go ahead and never lets discouragements stop him in his forward march.

BEDOUINS COMPOSE KINGDOM OF ARABIA NOW FREE OF TURK

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—What manner of people constitute the "boos" of the world's newest kingdom, that of Arabia, forms the subject of a timely war geography bulletin issued from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. The bulletin is based upon the observations and experiences of one of the society's correspondents who has spent many years in the Near East. Concerning the Bedouins, the nomadic class in Arabia, whose extensive camps are scattered over the interior of the great southwestern peninsula of Asia the bulletin says:

"Of the Bedouins and the Fellahs (the settled agricultural class) the former are the more numerous people and by far the more interesting. The Bedouins place the city dweller because fate has decreed that he must pass his days in the confinement of a house or enclosed city, while the city man congratulates himself on his freedom in being spared the dangers, inconveniences and exposures that are the lot of the tent-dweller.

"The life of the latter is an uncertain one. This is his home, made of goat and woven by the women of his harem from goat's hair, the accumulation of many years. This tent cloth is waterproof and a good protection against the fierce sun of the desert. It is very portable, and serves for many generations. Each camp has a chief, part of whose tent is set apart as a guest room, in which the visitors are entertained with the greatest hospitality.

"The chief gives the order to move camp and decides on the new pitch. Local disputes are referred to him for settlement, and in the event of a dispute he is able to adjust the matter the disputants must go to the capital and present their case to the Emir. This they are slow to do, for it means a long journey, and when from home for an uncertain time, as well as some amount of expense. The chief, too, is responsible for the good behavior of the people in his district and for the return of the tax due from the tribe.

"The desert which the Bedouin calls home has to be lived in, crossed, slept on, and one's survival for a time, he can be thoroughly appreciated and enjoyed. The boasting of the Bedouins about the free life they enjoy, and their pity for their city neighbors confined in their close and dark dwellings, can be excused after a sojourn in their tents. But the desert life is not all honey by any means, for it is always the danger of attack from the nothing-to-lose and all-to-gain members of the society, or the risk of perishing for want of water, or the giving out of one's food without the possibility of being able to replenish the supply.

"When traveling through inland Arabia the routine of travel is somewhat arduous. Up with the daybreak and as soon as possible load the camels, ride for some four or five hours; then put down for the first morning meal, which usually consists of dates and water; then off again until late in the afternoon, when the camp is made for the night. Supper usually consists of warm bread with an onion or dates as a relish. Bread is prepared in a simple manner as possible, the dough being kneaded in a large earthenware bowl, and then covered with a hot cloth. On part of these the hot dough is then covered with a hot cloth. In about fifteen minutes the dough is sufficiently baked. It is then well beaten to free it from the ashes, broken in pieces and divided among those who from their bags have contributed to the meal.

"After the evening feast coffee is made by some member of the party and in tin cups handed round to each one as much regard being paid to etiquette as if all were assembled in the most spacious guest-room in the largest city in the country.

"Conversation never lags, and until late in the evening the men talk, some telling imaginary stories, others reciting impromptu poetry, until tired out, all except those designated to keep watch roll up in their large cloaks and are soon asleep.

"Most of the houses of Arabia are built of sun-dried bricks, many of them are three stories high, and all have flat roofs. As a rule, the interiors are quite devoid of furniture, the coffee roaster, pounder pots, and cups being about all that is desirable. Many of the houses are doleful, accounted for by the scarcity of suitable wood. "Wherever people are found in the Arabian peninsula with the most limited number of milk-giving animals, such as sheep, goats or camels, there will be found the national substitute for the lards of the Occident, or the olive oil of other lands, a very favorite production called 'sammin.' This is a butter which is made in a primitive, simple and unappealing manner, being churned in a skin which has been none too well cured and does not recommend itself for cleanliness. The mode of procedure is simplicity itself, the milk being put into the skin and then swung backward and forward on a tripod, or rolled to and fro on the ground until the fat of the milk forms itself into butter. A favorite dish to see before the distinguished visitor is a mixture of dates and butters.

"Throughout Arabia there are many things in common among the Bedouins and the Fellahs, as for example, the use of clothing among both sexes; little distinction is made between rich and poor, and from a man's apparel it is impossible to get any idea of his social standing.

Idea of his social standing. Local homes it is customary for the host to assume the place of waiting during the serving of food, and takes his meals after all the others have been served.

"As in other Mohammedan lands, the women in the cities and towns of Arabia are secluded, but in the desert and camp life they enjoy the same freedom as the men; the women, too, do a large share of the work in co-operation with the male members of the family."

FEDERAL GRAIN INSPECTORS HELP STATE MEN GRADE GRAIN

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 1.—Federal grain inspectors today took their place shoulder to shoulder with state grain inspectors and watched every ear of incoming grain at Minneapolis. One of the arguments of recent political agitators in the farmers' drive that swept North Dakota was that grain shipped to this market was improperly graded by state graders. The addition of federal graders is construed as a victory for the farmer politicians of the Dakotas.

ARMY AVIATOR STUDIES MIGRATORY BIRD FLIGHTS.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Dec. 1.—A French army aviator, Captain G., when not directing the squadron he commands, gives his attention to the ways of certain birds in the air.

He has observed that swallows when migrating fly at an elevation of about 800 yards, while wild ducks, at a similar period, fly as high as 2,000 yards. The green-headed species, he noted, flew at about 85 miles an hour when mounting and about 95 miles when in horizontal flight. Lapwings were seen by the aviator at over a mile and a half high.

As to admissions, some game was worth five dollars per bleacher seat, while at other contests the spectators should be paid by the hour for remaining.

PRESTIGE OF U. S. WAS NEVER HIGHER IN SCANDINAVIA

North Countries Watch American "Preparedness" Program Closely.

Christiania, Dec. 1.—If the Swedes by stretching things a bit can be called pro-German, the Norwegians, without stretching things at all, are pro-Ally.

Norwegians and Swedes are not particularly fond of each other and in the recent Neutral Alliance it was more a feeling of self-preservation than anything else which brought about the union of Sweden, Norway and Denmark.

For here one does not hear much of stretching things in the war, but rather of the nations of the world having a hand. Nor does anybody seem to believe that this is the last great war; or that after this war is over little nations will be safe from molestation by the big.

Rather the feeling is that "preparedness" is the only remedy which for a long time to come will prove effective. All eyes are on the United States to see what steps she is going to take along these lines for, whatever people may say in Europe or at home, the prestige of the United States has not suffered in Scandinavia. Wherever I have been in Norway and Sweden—and I have been twice in Norway and three times in Sweden since the war—only good words were heard of America. Americans here say the American nation was never more highly respected than now.

So now Swedes, Norwegians and Danes are watching the United States to see what lines her "preparedness" program is to take.

Norwegians and Denmark already have three general meetings have been held—one in Sweden, the first—the second in Denmark and the third here. There will be others as occasion demands. But as to just what, transpired at these meetings no one is yet absolutely certain despite the official communiques which were handed out after each. This much, however, is certain.

Norway, Sweden and Denmark have agreed to act together on all questions affecting their neutrality.

To take joint steps as regards black lists promulgated by belligerent powers. To inquire jointly into commercial espionage, or acts whereby foreign countries come into possession of trade secrets of the three Scandinavian countries.

To establish a working basis for commercial co-operation after the war. To teach an agreement concerning Scandinavian shipping, the effects of the Allied blockade and of German U-boats.

To agree on steps necessary to maintain their neutrality. This much the three countries are known to have discussed. But it is generally believed that they went further than that and became to all intents and purposes allies for purposes of defense in the future.

A Swede told me: "If the Scandinavian countries are to remain free, they must, absolutely, come together and agree on a policy of mutual assistance in time of trouble."

This seems to be the general feeling here. People seem of the opinion that the world will remain topsy-turvy for some years to come, and that weaklings among nations are a menace to themselves and a temptation to their neighbors. Of course nobody talks of an aggressive alliance here. But neither Swedes, Norwegians nor Danes want to be caught out on a limb. So it happens that Norwegians, Swedes and Danes, with no particular friendship for each other, may be expected to stand as one in the future.

"A Certain Man" and "A Certain Samaritan"

By REV. GEORGE E. GUILLE
Extension Department, Moody Bible
Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Luke 10:25-37.

It appears that the Lord Jesus was not so much concerned in answering questions as in answering the state of mind that produced them. In the story of the good Samaritan it is certainly so.

The lawyer's question: "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" reveals the legality of his mind. He has no doubt about his ability to do something to make himself worthy of eternal life, but he has now come to the light, and in his light he shall see light. Eternal life is God's free gift and no man inherits it by doing, but by being "born from above."

The Lord meets the lawyer on his own ground when he demands: "What is written in the law? how readest thou?" And he answered: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind, and thy neighbor as thyself." And Jesus said unto him: "Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live."

Does the gospel preacher contradict the Lord when he speaks of eternal life as the free gift of God for all who will receive it? Not in the least! Ideally, there is a way of salvation that is not of grace, for Moses said of the law, "The man that doeth these things shall live by them." But who has ever done them? The most devoted heart on earth does not love God supremely nor its neighbor as itself, and this righteous requirement of the law is the condemnation of all mankind. Why, then, did the Lord answer the lawyer so? He was using the law for the purpose for which it was given: "For by the law is the knowledge of sin." (Rom. 3:20).

Purpose and Failure of Law.

That the law has had its designed effect is revealed in his next question: "But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, 'And who is my neighbor?'" No one had accused him. Why did he seek to justify himself? The law has done its work; in its holy light his conscience is accusing him. There he stands, revealed by the law in the presence of the Saviour, who will now tell him man's neighbor is. He joys to tell it! It is himself, the Saviour, the only being in the universe who loves his neighbor as himself.

"A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho." In the first five words of the parable the Lord reveals man's downward course: man will tell you he is going up, the Lord says "down." The last four words of the sentence completes the picture of human depravity—"from Jerusalem to Jericho." From Jerusalem, the holy city, to Jericho, the city of the curse! What a picture! Man has turned away from the light and is walking in his own shadow to destruction.

But lost man is not without hope! Along this dangerous road many a traveler is seized with the conviction of sin: "And he fell among thieves which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead." What a picture of the helpless misery to which sin has reduced every man.

"By chance there came down a certain priest that way . . . Likewise a Levite" the parable continues. No help for him from either of them, divinely appointed ministers of blessing though they were! Their service has to do with the temple, and the traveler has turned away from the temple. They represent the law, which is good if one can keep it, but cannot help the helpless. The priest and the Levite are mere chance passers-by, not heaven-sent messengers to dying men.

Salvation Through Riches of Grace. "But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed . . . He was journeying: out of the father's bosom came he who alone can help us—". . . came where he was, and when he saw him he had compassion, and went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him." It is a truism that "the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans," but this Samaritan will have gracious dealings with this Jew. "When we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his son." A helpless enemy, yet had he compassion and met all my desperate need without question or condition. Observe the manner of his dealings: "pouring in oil and wine." His grace is measureless, and all he does for the sinner is after this pattern.

The narrative closes with the command: "Go, and do thou likewise." Your ministry to men of misery: nothing meets his mind short of bringing him into the new creation.

European Literature.

It was not until the European mind was away forever the fetters of Renaissance traditions that Shelley and Keatsworth became possible in England. That Goethe and Heine were possible in Germany, or Victor Hugo and Alfred de Musset in France.

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

Fourth Quarter. Lesson X. Revelation I. 1-3, 17-20. December 3, 1916. JESUS CHRIST THE FIRST AND THE LAST.

The Book of Revelation is the clasp of the whole volume—made of gold from the street of the New Jerusalem, studded with jewels from its walls, and graven with the mystic emblems of beasts and elders. Its position in the sacred canon is evidently the one Inspiration designed for it. The last book corresponds to the first with its paradise, tree and river. And the beatitude on reader is not for one who peruses Revelation only, but the whole volume. The course upon one who adds or detracts refers not to Apocalypse alone, but to the entire Scripture. Thus Revelation binds the volume together.

The place of the book in the composition of the earliest readers that Patmos is an island. But ever since, that Aegean rock which served the last seer as a watch-tower from which to view the double panorama, celestial and terrestrial, has been covered with a solemn glory. The person of the composer, too, has a fascinating charm. "The Thunderer," and yet a beloved Disciple; the last link between apostolic and post-apostolic age; all his associates dead, and that, too, by violence; he, in age and feebleness extreme, an exile by the cruelty of Domitian, possibly a common laborer in the quarry—such a one on the Lord's day, caught up into the third heaven, and not, like Paul, reticent about what he saw, but forcing and torturing language to express his colossal conceptions in the grandest and most energetic forms. . . . The christophany eclipses all the rest of the book, crowded though it is with dazzling wonders. John takes human language in his portraits of the person of Jesus Christ. He says, "I saw, and I tell," and he says, "He affects not the beautiful, but the ineffably glorious. Never did painter have such a study. The Lord of glory deigns to give his disciple a sitting. The disclosure was mercifully gradual. Mortal eye could not have supported it had it been instantaneous. It was announced by a trumpet-voice, the uncertainty of which prepared the revealer for something supernatural; a voice that charged him to be as alert as a modern stenographer in taking down what he saw and heard. When he turned to look, his eyes were further schooled to splendor by seeing only certain subsidiary objects. The seven golden lampstands all ablaze was a goodly enough sight in itself. They represent the vehicle through which God shines—His churches; golden, to show he prizes them; separate, to suggest their autonomy; seven of them, to represent the whole Church. The eye of rapt exile passes slowly from the shining candelabra to the more than regal form, the glorified person of Jesus Christ, as it gradually materializes. Even here the apostle passes from the accessory to the principal, from the clothing to the person. Gowns have been woven out of spun glass. This sacerdotal robe was woven out of sun beams. Not, as on Hermon's sacred height, for a moment, but forever. The raiment continues white to the light. The regal golden girdle "braces the frame together and symbolizes collected powers." The girdle also so placed disposes the garment for "calm, majestic movement." Like Aaron's robe and girdle, these, too, are "for glory and beauty." . . . And now John dares glance at Jesus' brow, with its coronal glory. Any electric display would fade before it. It is a dazzling silvery whiteness, as white as the snow, sparkling as the snow does when the sun sets its myriad tiny stars ablaze. The lustrous eyes are all aflame, not in wrath, but with Divine genius. His feet gleam like metal at white heat. And His voice resounds like the multitudinous waves even then pounding on the rock-ribbed isle. In the palm of his outstretched right hand lies a chaplet of seven stars—signifying that each Church and the whole Church is in His keeping. It is suggested that the sword from the mouth is not a stiff, steel fixture, but His Divine and powerful breath making itself, as it were, visible. . . . But the glorified person of the monarch of heaven, earth, and hell, now fully deified, was of insufferable majesty. As nearly sixty years before, on the Mount of Transfiguration, so again, John (as like one dead. But the majestic figure bends over the benumbed disciple, and the gentle voice he was wont to hear beside the sea calls him back to consciousness with its familiar cadence, "Fear not!" and its identification of Himself with the Messiah, and the affirmation of His eternity, and the sovereignty over death and the underworld. Directions follow us to the immediate record of the things seen and heard, and exclamations of the symbolism of the stars and lampstands.

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

Prepared message always comes to prepared person. It was no accident that the man had this vision. By a long course of schooling, to which he submitted intelligently, he became singularly open to the Divine. . . . By the same process he was prepared to transmit what he received. He proved a faithful witness. . . . Revelation is the normal close of the New Testament. Gospels are a fourfold biography of Jesus. Acts is the photograph of the Apostolic Church. Epistles are the indoctrination of that Church. Revelation opens the vista of the future: pictures Jesus triumphant. Thus, in spite of its composite authorship and variant form, the New Testament keeps its unity. The Apocalypse has been aptly called a tract for bad times. It was written in an age of persecution and impending cataclysms. Its purpose was to assure foreboding minds of ultimate victory in spite of current contradictions.

December 3, 1916. Revelation III. 14-22 THE CONSECRATION OF BUSINESS LIFE.

(Consecration Meeting.) The same peril prevails in the business world as in the natural world. It is the forgetting of God. The discovery of the prevalence of law, universal and inviolable, obscures to the average mind the infinite Author of the law in both realms. As long as things seemed to be fortuitous and the element of chance apparently present, men thought with their schemes. Being who might invade their schemes with his caprice. They remembered God it is true, but they remembered him with a species of superstition. Now that they find the exact and imperious domination of law in economic matters as in the natural world, they grow independent and proud. The man of large business is tempted to say "is not this great Babylon that I have builded?" Whereas the discovery of law should have directly the opposite effect. Law is nothing but God's way of doing things. Back of the order is the Orderer. Men should reverently feel themselves God's partners. The silent Member of the firm should be recognized and receive his due portion of the profits.
